(3) SYLLABUS

Each student is supervised by a faculty member of the Division of Archaeology and a professional from the practicum placement. The two supervisors cooperate in setting up the work project and provide the student with all the necessary information. The professional from the practicum placement supervises the student during the SP and provides a performance evaluation. This evaluation concerns mainly the type and duration of employment of the student and is sent to the supervising faculty member. The faculty member assigns the final grade based on both the assessment of the placement supervisor and the student's report.
